

Edgar Allan Poe

The Masque of the Red Death p. 454

Define allegory:

p. 1244 or 1372

- Slide show of rooms
- Picture/drawing of rooms

- Video clip “Can Can,” from Moulin Rouge
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=PWgCqbWwpBg>

#2 At the end of Poe’s story, “The Masque of the Red Death,” Poe wanted his readers to feel . . . we will all die, shock, horror, fear, and paranoia

#6 The messages at the end of “The Masque of the Red Death” are

- You can run but you can’t hide – explain
- Death comes to everyone – explain
- Even the wealthy and privileged will die
- Abandoned all his subjects – selfish